rants and stores within walking distance," says Vamos. He was also hired to find accommodations for The Road To Perdition. "It is really about canvassing the area and knowing the availabilities of the better properties."

Corporate clients are another important segment of Vamos' and Miners' business.

Corporate clients are another important segment of Vamos' and Miners' business. Miner has found housing for top-level visiting employees from CNA Insurance and IBM, stating that "I plan to grow my business outside of Chicago by opening satellite offices in Los Angeles and New York. I've already got my real estate license to conduct business in Beverly Hills."

Vamos regularly secures corporate suites in high-rise buildings and one-bedroom lofts near the East Bank Club but says he is most fond of working with the film and creative community. Unique requests include securing a Victorian style couch for a production designer, a Penthouse with a balcony on Lake Shore Drive for an actress and a four-bedroom house with a yard in the downtown area for a major actor.

"You make it happen," concludes Miner, freely admitting that all celebrities' wishes are not outrageous, "Their standard preference is for comfortable accommodations with some character; you know, granite and marble countertops, Jacuzzis and skyline views."
